Susi Wolf is a seasoned professional storyteller who brings a multitude of story genres to her audiences. Susi travels regionally and nationally, bringing her tales of wonder to special events, concerts, schools, libraries, parties, gatherings and all types of venues.

Susi is comfortable telling stories with any age group (small children to adults), using an abundance of oral tradition ranging from original stories to ancient tales. She includes variety, embracing multicultural folktales, animal fables, fairy tales, wisdom tales and more. Susi is Eastern Band Cherokee/Celtic so she frequently includes Native American tradition (drumming, singing, history) in her performances. In addition, Susi also has a strong wildlife background and often brings animal biofact display items (skulls, hides, etc.) to use in her presentations.

A lively entertainer, Susi possesses humorous and participatory storytelling techniques to ensure audiences are transported on a true journey.
